

SUSAN'S STORY* NEWSLETTER

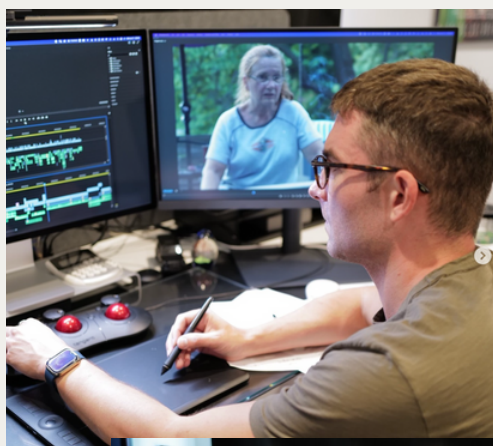

*WORKING TITLE

OCT. 23, 2023

Facing a cruel life predicament, a tireless advocate for others secretly tries to control mortality.

Thank you for joining us for the inaugural Newsletter of our documentary! Be sure to keep an eye out for exciting updates about the film, exclusive behind-the-scenes content, and valuable information about frontotemporal dementia (FTD).

The filmmakers behind Susan's Story are currently immersed in the documentary's editing phase. The film's producers are excited to be collaborating with James Kicklighter, a skilled editor and director based in Los Angeles, California.

Did you know?

In honoring Susan Suchan's enduring legacy, Heather Miller, Susan's daughter, remains a steadfast advocate for individuals affected by frontotemporal dementia and those who care for them. Alongside the Susan's Story filmmakers, they share a common mission: to encourage families to engage in the challenging discussions surrounding dementia.

American actress Charmian Carr stunned as Liesl, the eldest von Trapp child, in The Sound of Music at just 21 years old. Just like Susan Suchan, Carr battled frontotemporal dementia. She spent her remaining days in Los Angeles, surrounded by the family she grew after retiring from show business, and passed away seven years ago in 2016.
